

SECOND RESURRECTION

CELIAN ANDROSS DISCUSSES THE WAR AND THE MILLENIUM

"During the millenium the righteous will live and reign with Christ in heaven; all the wicked will be in death, and the devil will be bound with a chain of circumstances to this world in its desolate condition," according to the statement of Evangelist Celian Andross last night in his discourse at Evangel hall, 115 South San Fernando road. His subject was "Will the Final War Precede or Follow the Millenium?"

"This thousand year period, in Revelation 20, is bounded by two great events, the first and the second resurrections," said Mr. Andross. "The Bible teaches two resurrections, the resurrection of the just and the unjust, of life and of condemnation."

"The first resurrection ushers in the second coming of Christ. He comes to receive the righteous to reign with Him. The apostle Paul says in I. Thess. 4:16-18, of that time, 'And the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ shall rise first; then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air; and so shall we ever be with the Lord. Wherefore comfort one another with these words.'

"When Christ comes at the beginning of the thousand years, the living wicked are destroyed. They have rejected every offer of mercy God has extended to them. They have refused repentance. They have said of Christ, 'Away with Him.' The parable of the wheat and the tares, as given by Christ, in which the tares are bound in bundles and burned, shows that the wicked are to be destroyed. The Bible does not tell us that the world will be converted, but it does say in II. Timothy 3:13 that 'evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived.'

"The wicked, upon seeing Christ at his coming, will cry for the rocks and the mountains to fall upon them as we read in Rev. 6:14-17, rather than to look into the face of Christ and have the glory of the Lord destroy them."

"Satan is bound to the earth. He cannot leave. Neither can he annoy or harm, for he has no victims. The righteous go with Christ to heaven to be with him, as we read in I. Thess. 4:16-18. The devil's own subjects are in death. The earth lies desolate. The cities have been broken down. Jeremiah 4:23-28 tells us of the condition of the earth during that time. Upon the earth, where he has caused so much trouble, deceiving the human family, causing sorrow, crying and death, and crucifying the Master, is where the plan of God has designed that Satan shall receive his punishment, during the thousand years, and eventually be burned, suffering death in the lake of fire."

"At the end of the thousand years the righteous return to the earth, as we read in Zachariah 14:4, 5. Revelation 20:5 tells us the wicked dead will be raised. Now Satan is loosed. His subjects are before him. The city of God, the New Jerusalem, comes down to the earth out of heaven, we are told in Revelation 21:2. The devil now deceives his followers into believing they can take the city of God from the saints. They surround the city, armed for a mighty war, the last the world will ever see. The Bible tells us the fire of God will descend upon that great host at that time and destroy them all. The fire that destroys the wicked purifies the earth. That is the only lake of fire the Bible tells us about. The wicked will be destroyed, root and branch, Satan the root, and his followers the branches. The kingdom of God will utterly blot out the kingdom of Satan, as the record of Revelation 20:7-10 plainly shows us."

"The prophecies of the Bible show us that just before the coming of Christ, at the beginning of the thousand years, Satan will incite the nations to war, and that again, at the close of this period he will again marshal the hosts of earth. Thus the final war will follow the millenium. The wicked will not have been converted during that period. There will be no second chance of salvation. 'Now is the accepted time.' 'Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of Him in peace, without spot, and blameless.'"

Evangelist Philip L. Knox will speak at the hall tonight on "Will Germany or Great Britain Rule the

EVANGELIST HABBICK BRINGS MESSAGE FROM PROPHET
JEREMIAH

While it rained steadily last evening a small company learned of Rev. John Habbick a blessed truth. God sent the message by his weeping prophet Jeremiah, "Thy words were found and I did eat them, and thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of mine heart, for I am called by thy name, O Lord God of hosts." The Holy Ghost speaks of joy all through the word of God, but never apart from God. If you are a real Bible student you can't keep from being joyous and rejoicing. Don't take anybody's word for what the Bible says, man, woman or child; get it for yourself, you don't let other people eat for you, you have got to eat for yourself. Even so eat the word, feed on it, assimilate it into your very being and you will have joy, you can't help it.

This world wouldn't take kindly to poor old weeping Jeremiah, the pity of it is that more of us don't weep for this poor old world of lost men and women. He wept because he saw his people forgetting God, he found no joy until he found God's word, the panacea for all ills.

There are two classes of people, butterflies and bees. It is easy to be a butterfly, but there is more business to a bee any day than a butterfly. Get in and dig like a bee and you will get something and it will be worth while.

There are some things you can't understand? Of course there are, there are plenty you can understand. Take these, feed upon them and the day will come when the spots that looked like desert places will blossom like the rose, and you will find joy and rejoicing. The Bible now has all that man needs for time and eternity, it is a finished, a perfect book, there is no need of a new revelation. Beware of the claims of a new revelation. If you find the word, it possesses you and you possess it, you will know you need no other revelation than is found in it. But there are plenty of people who are being fooled by these new revelations, who would take sin, poverty, sorrow and death out of this world. They will never be taken out until Jesus Christ comes to take them out. Take them out now and you would take away seventy-five per cent of the promises of God contained in the book. Thank God when you know sorrow, when you have felt the pinch of poverty, when you know suffering by actual experience, for that is the way you get into fellowship with the son of God. God has to give some of us these things to bring any real joy in our lives. Some men He has to make poor, some have to be put in the penitentiary before God can get hold of them. The disciples could never have had that experience on the sea of Galilee had it not been for the storm.

The prophet had reason for his joy and rejoicing, he was called by the name of the Lord God of hosts. If you are called by the name of the Lord God of hosts you are rejoicing too. This is a measure for you to see where you stand.

I want to be at concert pitch all the time in my preaching, put my very best in it all the time, not just part of the time. I would do anything that God wants me to do if I could thereby glorify His name and save some one. Act foolish? Why not? I see men and women acting foolish about everything else. Why not for God? He takes the foolish things of this world to confound the mighty. If you are a child of God act like you believed His word and you will believe it, have faith in it and He will bring it to pass. When you find anything in God's word take it, eat it, make it yours and you will rejoice here and hereafter. I hate any man who makes an apology for the Word of God, especially if he calls himself a man of God and claims to stand up and proclaim the Word of God. Don't you let any of them fool you, find God's promises in His Word. If you can't find them any other way get a concordance, find them, eat them and you will be filled with joy and rejoicing, for you will be called by the name of the Lord God of Hosts.

Tonight Mr. Habbick will speak on "Fads, Fancies, Cults and Whirlwind Religions." Many have heard only one side of these questions. Come out to hear the other side. Don't forget the Wednesday after-

PROF. FERGUSON GIVEN TOKEN OF ESTEEM—SPANISH
PLAY

"This is certainly a surprise," said Mr. Ferguson yesterday. "I-er-a-I don't know what to say. I certainly appreciate this token."

Mr. Ferguson, who is usually very easy of speech, stammered a little yesterday for once when Ed Seay, president of the Senior class, presented him with a gift from the class which he has undertaken to advise.

The present was a dainty pen knife and chain of gold, Roman gold and green gold. On the handle was engraved the words "A. L. F. from '17."

"Our feelings for Mr. Ferguson are much larger than a mere present can show," said Mr. Seay in presenting the love token on behalf of the class. "We feel that Mr. Ferguson is one of us."

The class teacher replied in a few well chosen words, saying that the class of '17 had struck an unusual thread of harmony, and that he would always be ready to render any aid within his power.

Mr. Edward Newcomb, popular young ladies' man of the Sophomore class, according to rumor, has lost his heart to a Flower.

Miss Fenton's second year Spanish class started to practice today on the play "Zarageta." The various members of the class will be given trial on the cast, and those who perform best will be chosen to take part in the presentation of the play before the Spanish club.

The editors of The Explosion are working on plans for the beauty contest which it is said will start with next Thursday's issue. Pretty girls may be expected to be even prettier for several weeks.

THE NEW CITY DIRECTORY

Six field men are now busily engaged checking up the proofs of the new 1917 city directory that is being published for Glendale, Tropic and Casa Verdugo by the Evening News. No money is being spared on this local publication. The cost of compiling and printing will likely far exceed the receipts, but Glendale needs an authentic directory, and when the book is placed in the hands of the people in correct and convenient form it will be appreciated.

No data will be received after Monday, Jan. 22. The new directories will be ready for distribution early in February. The price per copy with map is $2.25. Price without map, $2.00. Every business firm and resident of the community should own a new directory. As only a few additional copies will be printed, parties wishing copies should place orders at once.

GARDEN SOCIETY SOCIAL MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Glendale Garden society to be held on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the library of the Third street school will be a social meeting to which all the friends and members of the society are to come and to which the general public is cordially invited. The hostesses will be Mrs. H. C. Smith and Mrs. Herbert Beede. Robert and Grace Tower will render piano selections. Mrs. Hutchinson will speak on a Civic Recreation center. Tea will be provided and a very pleasant time is anticipated.

GLENDALE FAVORED

The natural scenery surrounding the City of Glendale is one of the great assets of the community. The beautiful hills towering above the city presenting an irregular contour that never tires the human eye attracts the attention of people who love the substantially pretty things in this world.

So often the remark is made by strangers: "Glendale is such a beautiful city. How much I would like to live in this city."

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair and warmer tonight. Wednesday fair. Killing frost Wednesday morning. Northeasterly winds.

noon service for all the young people at 4 o'clock. If you are any where under one hundred years old the meeting is for you. If you have not yet been to the meetings come one time. You will come again. God is in the meetings. You will miss Him if you stay away. The meetings will continue all through this week and longer if God wills.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, JANUARY 16, 1917

SHALL WE ACT ON FLOOD PROTECTION?

In 1862, the coastal plain which is now known as Southern California, was made a great inland lake by a storm that lasted for days. Old settlers, living here and there in the canyons and on the plains, still speak of it with awe.

In 1884 the inland valleys became again an expanse of water. Men who had built up comfortable fortunes in live-stock raising lost everything they had. Some lost their lives.

In 1889 all previous floods were surpassed in the terrible devastation that came sweeping down from every canyon of the Sierra Madres. Families were marooned for days. On the lonely expanses of the plains men and women disappeared that were never heard of again. Those were pioneer days and dangers and violent deaths were common. But the enormous walls of wild water that emerged from the canyons are described by many who still remember with a vividness that fear impressed upon their memory. That flood was the greatest by far that white man, Spanish or American, could recall.

But there were not 2000 people all told on the plains outside of the pueblo of Los Angeles in 1862. There was a very thin population of cattle and sheep ranches on those plains in 1884 and 1889.

The flood of February, 1914, was one of no small proportions and reminded the people of Los Angeles county that steps should be taken at once to take care of the overflow water at the time of unusual rains.

What would happen, what is liable to happen in this Los Angeles county of today of over a million souls, of 37 populous cities and towns, if a flood of the size of 1889 should sweep down from the mountains?

In the report of the board of engineers, made to the board of supervisors on July 27, 1915, there are numerous interviews with old residents, who say that twice as much water flooded the valley in 1889 as in 1884. But the property loss was comparatively small when compared with the loss just recently, in 1914, although seventy per cent more water fell in 1889 than in 1914. This brings us to face this serious question—if a flood as great as the one in 1889 again occurs (and the history of the country proves that it is quite possible) what will be the loss of life as well as the loss of property?

The valleys have changed since the days when the old pioneers guarded their cattle on the plains. Every acre of the Southland is worth more than any acre in any other part of the world where agriculture is a pursuit. The most valuable orchard lands in the world are here. And in a few days of such exceptional floods as have been experienced in the past, they may be wiped out, and the country would under these circumstances go back gradually to such a condition as now exists in Palestine, once a wonderful country like this one, now an eroded, boulder-strewn ruin, with the silt of the country long since washed into the seas.

Wild water can be controlled—can be checked, hindered, retarded in its flow from the mountains; it can be confined in definite channels. It can be made to percolate into the ground, where it can be drawn up later for irrigation. It can be impounded in reservoirs.

And these are the things contemplated in a proposed bond issue, which will expend $4,450,000 to safeguard life and property in Los Angeles county. You owe it to yourself and to your children and children's children to vote in favor of the bonds.

COMMISSIONS AND SUB-COMMISSIONS

The plan of having the business of a state or the business of a corporation systematized is to be commended, but is it not true that a few states become commissioned to a condition of pauperism? There was a time that the State of Illinois had so many gamekeepers that almost every rabbit on the prairies and in the cornfields had a protector. These rabbit herders were drawing salaries, with nothing to do more than work out red tape reports that kept an additional clerical force busy making records that were not worth the paper on which they were written.

There is a tendency in political campaign times for candidates for jobs to make promises, and the sad part of it is these promises if kept must be kept at the expense of the taxpayers. To create a new department means that additional people must be given employment. To appoint a commission and keep it in existence for the sake of giving someone employment should not meet with the approval of taxpayers.

PREJUDICE HARD TO OVERCOME

Of all traits of human nature the world over, the hardest to overcome is prejudice. It is prejudice against new inventions that keeps the world a hundred years behind time. Edison says: "It is hard to drive an idea into the world's head." To-day the eskimo of Alaska and the oriental of the far east are living as their forefathers lived hundreds of years ago. We go forward just with the rapidity with which we are able and willing to look forward and not backward, to see the possibilities for good in new inventions, in new methods of doing things. The man who refuses to take advantage of modern methods and modern things because his father never used them, will not progress any further than his father did. He will continue to live in the past generation. However, the world will continue to move and those who are prejudiced against progress will be left behind.

THE KICKING HABIT

A horse is considered as showing good sense if it kicks when there is a good cause for kicking, but the horse that kicks just to make kicking a business is one for which dealers in horses have no use. So it is with men, the man who kicks sensibly is admired on account of the energy put forth at the opportune time, but alas, how greatly abhorred is the man who is a professional kicker. There should be some method about doing things, and so a kicker should be systematic and reasonable about the use of his efforts or he will not accomplish much. The well-balanced man sees the beautiful in life as well as the things that are not beautiful. The man who can honestly speak words of praise when praise is due can more effectively offer words of criticism when criticism is due. It should be the ambition of every fair-minded man to be well balanced on all questions.

THE FIGHT IT OUT PLAN

Life is too short in this world for a man who has good common sense to practice the fight it out system. If what you advocate does not meet the approval of people, that does not mean that what you advocate is not a good thing, but it does mean that you are unable to cause the people to see that it is a good thing. Do not become provoked and stubborn when the ideas you have presented are ignored. Be courteous and present them in another form. The man who becomes grouchy and displeased because his plans are not accepted seldom gets anything he wants. Keep free from the selfish fighting spirit.

PAPERS FORCED TO WALL

It is conceded that no industry in the country has been so hard hit by rising costs since the great war began as the newspaper. In every other line of business the remedy has been the simple one of passing the increase along, but the newspapers have been slow to do this. Faced with extermination by the prohibitive price of production, they have held off in the hope of some other relief.

But not a day goes by without chronicling the suspension of one or more newspapers. Hundreds of newspapers have been forced out of existence in the United States in the last year and more are on the verge of suspension. Others are holding on to life by following the action of the butcher, the baker and candlestick maker and all merchants in adding to their selling price the increased price they themselves pay. Increases in subscription rates and advertising rates have been necessary to save themselves from suspension.

From all parts of the country the process of elimination is reported. Only the other day one of the most recent was the case of the Enfield Express, for many years the only newspaper in Enfield, Ill. A closer case is that in our neighboring county, where the Orange Daily Star expired with the dying year.

Although started and operated by capable young men it was forced to the wall. It was an ill-fated start from the start. Entering a field that was fortunate enough to have already a good daily paper, the brief life of the new venture covered but two or three months. It might have dragged out a longer existence, but conditions hastened its death. In writing their own obituary the publishers said:

As an illustration of the rapid rise in news stock we give the following figures: Up to July 1st we bought newsprint at 4½ cents a pound laid down in Orange; after July 1st the price went to 6 cents laid down here, and after the first of the year it will be about nine cents if you have a contract or 12 or 13 cents a pound if publishers are not protected by a contract. But the worst part of it all is the paper houses will not guarantee to furnish the newspapers the stock at any price—they merely contract to furnish it as long as they can get it, and they are not certain how long that will be.

Federal investigation of the newspaper print business has already started, but this will be many months before any results favorable to publisher could be obtained, if at all.—Ontaria Report.

WHAT OUR LEGISLATORS ARE DOING

The number of bills to be introduced in the present session will in no way approach the record of recent legislatures. A scanning of the lists reveals somewhat more than 30 important subjects that legislators have announced their intention of bringing up.

There broods in the horizon a dark storm cloud in the way of saloon reform legislation. All have their weather eyes on it. It is the question that threatens to rouse legislative calm to stormy turbulence.

Already there is a kindred measure announced in the way of a county unit bill, which amends the local option law to permit counties to vote on the liquor question by units. This bill is going to stir up quite a fuss, but it will be nothing to what will happen if the grape and wine men take the bit in their teeth to attempt to put through a bill to "save themselves," as they term it, and forestall the possibility of complete prohibition at another election, by drastic saloon reform legislation.

Proposed labor and anti-labor legislation will cut a big figure. The Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco is out after the scalp of union labor. Its members make no bones of this. They propose an anti-picketing statute and other legislation tending to hamper the operations of labor unions.

The union men are here, too, in full force. They are prepared to fight the anti-faction to a finish and, in addition, have some labor laws of their own. Among these is health insurance for workers. They also have a sweeping Sunday closing law. But their three principal measures are an anti-injunction bill, a bill abolishing private employment agencies, and improvements to the workmen's compensation act.

The bill to prohibit injunction of strikers has been up several times. An extraordinary effort will be made to put it across at this session. Being the opposite of the anti-picketing bill, it will have the united forces of the anti-unionists to overcome.

THE CUSTOMER-OWNERSHIP IDEA

Making the people financial partners in public utilities is a new and popular movement.

The Northern States Power Co. has sold six per cent. stock to several thousand customers the past two years.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Co. of California successfully sold millions of dollars worth of its six per cent. stock to customers.

At San Diego an entire issue of securities of the local gas and electric corporation was sold to the people by H. M. Bylesby & Co.

This system opens the door to friendly co-operation between conservative citizens and utility concerns, instead of suspicious, envious antagonists. Under this plan utilities will be managed with a higher sense of devotion to public service.

Regulatory commissions will learn to have more respect for these properties and radical action will be minimized.

HOW TO GET A LOAN UNDER THE FARM LOAN ACT

(Written for the United Press.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The right to borrow under the Farm Loan Act is limited to farmers and prospective farmers.

Farmers or prospective farmers who wish to borrow group themselves into Farm Loan Associations, each association being composed of ten or more farmers, and each association starting with a minimum of at least $20,000 of loans.

To join, a farmer merely makes application to the secretary-treasurer of the loan association in his community. If none has been organized he should get together the required number of borrowers and organize an association.

The Federal Farm Loan Board at Washington will furnish on application, a blank form of articles of association for such organizations. Then the organizers meet and adopt these articles and sign them and the secretary-treasurer makes affidavit thereto.

This association then elects five or more directors and the directors then elect a president, vice president, secretary-treasurer, and a loan committee of three members.

As soon as the Federal Land bank of that district is ready for business it will provide this local association with additional blanks, including an application for a charter and blanks for the loan committee to use in the work of appraising the farms.

As soon as the loan committee is elected it may proceed to appraise the farms upon which mortgages are to be placed. Its report, which must be unanimous, must accompany the signed articles of association and be filed with the Federal Land Bank of that district.

When this is done the appraiser of the Federal Land Bank will come to inspect the security offered and accept or reject the report of the loan committee.

No one farmer may borrow more than $10,000 nor less than $100. No National Farm Loan Association may start with aggregate loans of less than $20,000.

If John Smith, a farmer, desires to borrow $2000 he invests in the stock of his local loan association one-twentieth of this amount or $100.

His association then invests this money in the stock of the Federal Land Bank, enabling it thus to increase its capital so as to make another loan of $2000 to some other farmer. The borrower gets his investment back when he pays off his loan, or he may turn it in as the last payment on his loan.

Farmers are required to form these organizations so that they eventually will control the Federal Land Banks. Each loan association votes in the election of the directors of its Federal Land Bank. Each association has a loan committee which values the land of its members subject to the approval of the land bank appraiser and the Federal Land Bank. Each association has a board of directors which has the power to exclude or admit new members by a two-thirds vote. It is through this local loan association that the farmer invests the money to be used for increasing the capital stock of the Federal Land Banks, and this is how the farmer comes into possession of his own banking system.

Farmers are permitted to borrow up to 30 per cent of the appraised value of their land and 20 per cent of the appraised value of the permanent insured improvements thereon.

It is not necessary for a borrower to be an actual land owner when he joins, but the landless man must use the borrowed money to purchase land which he intends to immediately begin farming.

MISLEADING

In Denver a building erected in 1909 has the date in Roman notation, MCMIX, engraved on its portal. The other day a citizen asked another man if he had seen anything of their common friend Danny that day. "I sure did," was the reply. "A few minutes ago I seen him standing in front of McMick's building over there on the corner."—Exchange.

NOT SO BAD

On the test paper in answer to the question, "What do we mean by the plural of a word?" Lucy had written "By the plural of a word we mean the same thing, only more of it."—New York Times.

"Do you want the court to understand," he said, "that you refuse to renew your dog license?" "Yessah, but—"

"We want no 'but.' You must renew the license or be fined. You know that it expired on January first, don't you?" "Yessah; so did the dog, sah."—The Herald and Presbyter.

A famous man gave this advice: "Cultivate new patience with the faults of others and study your own with greater care."

At a Southern eating station an old colored man was ringing a bell and a little dog sat beside him howling dismally. The old man turned to him and said, "What you hollerin' for? You won't have to eat here."

SHAKESPEARE SECTION

The Shakespeare section held an open meeting at the home of Mrs. Hester, 1023 Maple avenue, Monday afternoon. Every chair in the cosy living room was filled with a most appreciative audience. The first number on the program was an impromptu barcarolle given by Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, followed by a rendition of McDowell in her usual gracious manner. The ethical significance of the play "Cymbeline" was read by Mrs. J. E. Lyon and the Imogen portrayed by Mrs. Chas. Temple, and the men of the play introduced and held in sway by Mrs. C. E. Norton, deserved hands across the sea from Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree. After a cup of good cheer a la Alexander, served by a most charming hostess, each returned to her respective home with something worth while to discuss at dinner.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. John Habbick, who has been holding a series of meetings at this church every evening for the past week, preached yesterday morning on the "Coming of Christ" to a large congregation. He based his discourse on the injunction of Jesus to His disciples, "Occupy till I come." There was a time in the history of Christianity when some great truths were temporarily lost, to be rediscovered by Martin Luther and other great teachers. Some people have so much learning and culture that they cannot see the truth of the inspired Word. "But," exclaimed the preacher, "if I am to make a choice I'll stand by the Word in preference to culture." It was a great day when the monk, Martin Luther, in his cell saw the great truth and promulgated it to the world that there is such a thing as justification by faith, that there is hope for the sinner who, through faith, may be saved. The teachings of the good old Methodist, John Wesley, and of that stern Presbyterian, John Calvin, have done much to put into justified souls the power of the Holy Ghost, and without this power you will never be prepared for the coming of the Lord. Jesus had to come to earth to make this power known. You must get this power; you Republicans, you Democrats, and even you Prohibitionists will not find in your political beliefs this saving grace; you can get it from the power of the Holy Ghost alone. Christ is the "Bright and Morning Star" that comes up out of the East after the darkness of night. He will surely come again, because He has promised to come. When will he come? you ask. I do not know; nobody knows; he will come as the bridegroom to the bride, but he will not come until the bride is ready. Some things are going to take place first, some things that are required to sanctify and purify, and you must get your house in order before He comes and to do this you must give up certain worldly amusements that hinder you in your efforts to fit yourself for His coming.

THURSDAY INSTEAD OF WEDNESDAY

In Saturday's ad for Easton's hotel and cafe it was stated that chicken dinners were served on Sundays and Wednesdays of each week. This should have read Sunday and Thursday of each week.

STOPPING THINGS AND STARTING THEM

The whistle of the locomotive tooted long and shrilly. The train began to slow up with a series of convulsive jerks, finally stopping altogether. The uninitiated looked a little alarmed. Old travelers on the line seemed more amused than disturbed.

The delay was brief. As the train moved on cautiously, the cause of the excitement was revealed in the shape of a cow which stood just to the right of the tracks, switching her tail meditatively. No chagrin was indicated by her attitude. Indeed, something in her manner revealed a complacency in thus proving her importance. A train had stopped on her account, a train carrying several score of human beings. It had waited till she felt ready to remove herself from the track. Over her shoulder the cow threw a glance at the train she had halted and her air indicated a natural pride in her own importance.

The counterpart of the cow is frequently observed in human society. There are people who think they are important because they can stop things. They are adepts in throwing cold water. Their gift for discovering difficulties in the way amounts to genius. Whatever is suggested they can always find reasons why it is impossible. And when the project they have opposed comes to nothing they pride themselves on being people of influence and importance. This is a big mistake. A cow can stop a train as this cow did but it takes a locomotive with plenty of steam to pull a train up a steep grade.—Selected.

Fifty good hens properly managed, it is estimated, return as much net profit as a cow.

THREE MEN AT ELGIN

The South Pasadena Record says: Once a week three men take a train from Chicago to Elgin, Ill. They go into a little room belonging to the Elgin Board of Trade. One of them goes through the motions of offering for sale twenty-five tubs of creamery butter. Another of them goes through the motions of buying it. The transaction is recorded and immediately flashed by telegraph to the four points of the compass. It sets the prices for the ensuing week for butter all over the United States and in many other parts of the world—not only for butter of that standard, but butter of inferior standards.

There is nothing wrong with that little transaction at Elgin on the face of it. Perhaps the butter, as a rule, is worth the price asked and given. But there is obviously much wrong with vesting such power in men responsible to no public authority. They represent only a small group that dominates the dairy industry. That group recognizes no motive of public service, but only the motive of private gain. There is latent power for vast evil, and there is in the minds of most outsiders a suspicion that that power is abused.

The transactions in question seem to fulfill the letter of the law. They have been tested and pronounced legal by the courts. But they are plainly an evasion of the laws intended to stop price fixing by irresponsible cliques.

The scientist had given a very scientific lecture, and at the end he said, beaming down on his audience condescendingly:

"Now, if there is any scientific question that any of my friends would like to ask I beg them not to hesitate. I shall be only too happy to answer any inquiry in my power."

An old lady in spectacles that gave her a severe, stern look, rose and said:

"Why do wet tea leaves kill cock roaches?"

The scientist did not know wet tea leaves did anything of the kind, much less the cause of the phenomenon; but, never at a loss, he replied:

"Because, madam, when a cockroach comes across a wet tea leaf, he says, 'Halloa, here's a blanket, and wraps himself up in it, catches cold and dies.'"

DOING GOOD WITHOUT KNOWING IT

The desire to see results from our efforts is natural enough, but it is easy to carry this natural wish to harmful extremes. We have no right to complain and be dissatisfied with ourselves, merely because we cannot see that our endeavor is fruitful. It is for us to do the best we can, to put forth all our energy and make the most of every day, not to get results. Perhaps, more than we realize, the desire to see results is due to a certain vanity on our part. Many of us have much to learn from the old-time saint, who when promised "the desire of his heart" as a reward for his piety, asked that he might do a great deal of good without knowing it.

ACCURATE CLOCK

In the Case School of Applied Science, in Cleveland, there is a clock that holds the world's record for accurate time keeping. Over a period of several months it showed a variation of only eight-thousandths of a second a day, which, in a year's time would be less than three seconds.

Ship chronometers, which are the most accurate time-measuring instruments in general use, cannot keep true time within less than three to five seconds a month. This Case clock does better. The accuracy is secured by a base so firm and compact that there is no vibration. The temperature in the room in which the clock is kept is carefully regulated so that it varies but little throughout the year.

The clock registers hours, minutes and seconds on separate dials. It automatically winds itself by means of dry cell batteries every seven minutes.

THE BEST WAY TO HELP A NEIGHBOR

It was Stevenson who said it was his business to make himself good and his neighbor happy, as far as he was able. And while it would be possible to misinterpret this rule, and twist its meaning, one who follows it strictly will get along very much better than if he tried to make his neighbor good and himself happy. Indeed, the best way to help one's neighbor is to be better to himself. The virtues in one's own life. And the surest way to gain the good will which will strengthen your influence over another, so that he will be ready to follow your guidance is to do your best to make him happy. The people who are all the time quarrelling with their neighbor's conduct while they are quite indifferent to his happiness do very little toward making the world better.

The necessary acreage of beans and pimientos has been signed up for a cannery at Santa Ana, which will begin operations in June and continue until about December.

Facts and Comment

A number of Santa Monica business men met Saturday and organized for a campaign against the proposed annexation of Santa Monica, Venice, Ocean Park and possibly a part of Sawtelle to Los Angeles.

The Whittier News states that the planting of potatoes is going to be the largest during the next three months ever known in this part of the state, the recent extremely high price of potatoes being the incentive. In the vicinity of El Monte alone there are over 350 acres of barley land going into potatoes in the spring and the ranchers are now preparing the soil for planting.

The South Pasadena Chamber of Commerce gave a big vaudeville entertainment Saturday evening as a means of providing themselves with a fund to accomplish the work they desire in the community and seemingly with great success. A large sale of tickets was reported not only to local people, but to numerous parties from Los Angeles, Pasadena and Alhambra.

The attorney general of California has rendered an opinion that the state has full power to seize any shipment of oranges or other fruits that are unfit for human consumption, if they are to be shipped outside of the state. If they are offered for sale in the state the local authorities will take care of that. The matter came up for decision because it was alleged that frostbitten fruit had been sent out of Tulare county and that the state authorities had no control over the shipments.

The city building department on Thursday issued a permit for construction of the first unit of the wholesale terminal buildings at Central avenue and Seventh street, authorizing an expenditure of $2,016,000, the largest amount ever carried in a Los Angeles building permit. The fee paid was $1530. Two six-story and two two-story concrete buildings, each 1300 feet long, will be constructed. The larger structures will be for the wholesale houses, the smaller for the public market.

A bad check man has been operating in South Pasadena and on Wednesday evening a sizable sort of person succeeded in exchanging a check for $18 made out to J. Warman and purporting to have been signed by Dr. Stonebrook for a pair of shoes and $14.10 in cash at a South Pasadena store. He is thought to be the same man as the one who earlier in the evening attempted to cash a check in a jewelry store and succeeded in passing one for $16.50, getting $10.50 in cash, $6 being deducted for a dresser he bought at the South Pasadena Furniture company. This latter check was made out to Fred Loomis and signed E. N. Thomas.

The following interesting facts regarding our sister city, Alhambra, are gleaned from an extract given by the Alhambra Advocate from the city manager's first annual report for the year ending July 1, 1916. The importance of Alhambra installing a sewer system of its own is recited and the agreement with the Pasadenaans on a disposal plant is gone into and explained, including the purchase of the 600-acre farm for disposal works of the three cities. The report deals with the water question also, but takes it up to the submission of the question to a vote of the people on August 3, when the bonds carried, Alhambra now owning the local water system. The librarian's report shows that the library building has cost $40,732.98, while the real estate, furniture, fixtures and books are estimated at $47,094.59, making the total valuation of the library $87,827.57. TODAY IS THE TIME

Whatever is done, is done now. Whatever is enjoyed is enjoyed in the present minutes. One of the most unfortunate habits you can form is that of postponing to some future date the kindness you have long intended, or the happiness you crave. Today is as good a time as any for showing helpfulness and consideration, for being happy and giving happiness. Put none of them off.

HARD ON THE SUPERINTENDENT

"I have come here," said the angry man to the superintendent of the street car line, "to get justice, justice, sir. Yesterday as my wife stepped off one of your cars the conductor stepped on her dress and tore a yard of frilling off the skirt."

The superintendent remained cool. "Well, sir," he said, "I don't know that we are to blame for that. What do you expect us to do? Get her a new dress?"

"No, sir, I do not intend to let you off so easily as that," the other man replied gruffly. He brandished in his right hand a small piece of silk.

"What I propose to have you do," he said, "is to match this piece of silk."—New York Times.

THE NAVAJO SPORT SKIRT

A decided novelty that will shortly be introduced to the wearers of sports clothes is a skirt made in the design of an Indian blanket. It is of a heavy cotton twill fabric that comes from Central America, and is all hand woven by the Indians themselves in the Navajo pattern. It sounds, at first thought, like a very startling piece of wearing apparel, but in this day of bright colors nothing seems too vivid, especially for outdoor sports.

SAFETY FIRST

An electric wire had fallen under its heavy weight of snow. The line-man found a crowd around the grounded copper, and an inquisitive Irishman lifting one end from the ground. He said to the Irishman: "Man alive! Don't you know what a risk you are taking? That might be a live wire."

"Sure," said Pat, "I did be thinkin' o' that meself, and I felt o' it before picking it up."

STABILITY AND ABILITY

By John Loari

Stability is the most necessary kind of ability. People who cannot stick to the thing they undertake are sure to make a failure, even though they have as many talents as they have fingers and toes. It is the steady hammering away on the same spot which results in achievement. The people who are tired of a thing almost as soon as they try it, include the world's most brilliant failures, but only failures, after all. You have learned nothing of any consequence till you have learned to stick.

Seeds planted in soil that is too wet or too dry, too cold or too hot will not germinate and grow. The soil bacteria which makes it possible for the roots of germinating seeds to absorb fertility and support the leaves and stalks of the growing plants cannot work in extreme soil conditions.

The pole of success is greased so that there is always room on top.
